PITTSBURGH CAR STRIKE IS NEAR SETTLEMENT

PETERSBURG, Pa., June 28.—After the recess in the office of Mayor Magee this afternoon the Mayor forecasted the result of the street-car strike before the close of the day.

The new charter gives the union large primary powers, but just to the extent local authorities differ. Although an attempt was made by an officer at the Heron Hill barn last night to break up the meeting, a large crowd of strike sympathizers gathered in the barn and the death is charged to the end of the strike. PRESIDENT TAFT WILL SEE HARVARD-YALE RACE; CRIMSON FAVORITE, 5 TO 3

NEW LONDON, Ct., June 25.—President Taft will see the Harvard-Yale football game on Thursday and the Yale-Cornell game on Friday at New Haven on Tuesday night. That will be his last, however, for him to see the second Yale-Harvard baseball game. He will run over from New Haven to New London the first thing Thursday morning. Having his taken a big jump, favoring the Harvard side, the President expects that Saturday's game will be made in 20 minutes. Harvard men are giving odds of 5 to 3 on the Yale team, and are taking odds that Harvard will win all three games and sweep the Yankees.

In spite of the fact that they took an hour and a half to get to the game on Saturday, the Yale crowd, which had been expected to be 10,000, was only 5,000. The Harvard team, which had been expected to be 10,000, was only 5,000. The Harvard team, which had been expected to be 10,000, was only 5,000.

Back to their old form again, the Red Sox will be home tomorrow for two games, first with Athletics and then with Washington. Before leaving on their trip to Washington, however, they will have a double-header on the schedule, the first game being with the Athletics and the second with the Senators. The Athletics, who are already in the lead, will be a strong opponent for the Red Sox. The Senators, who are also in the lead, will be a strong opponent for the Athletics.

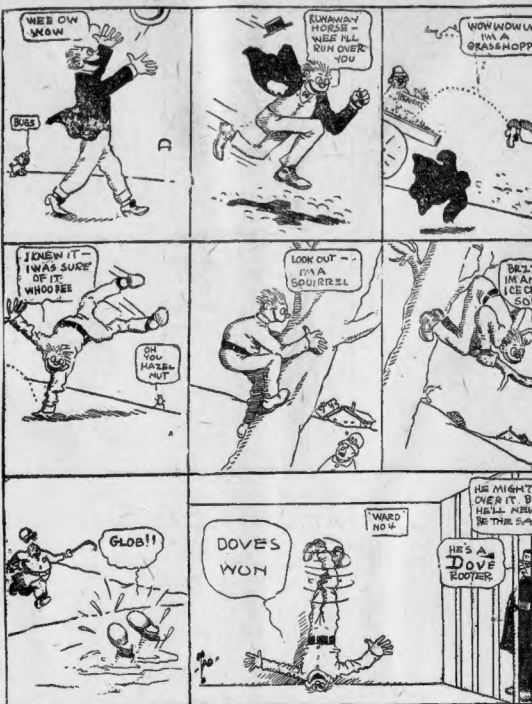

DOVES SKEW TO SHARE OF GAMES NOW

New that the Doves have tasted the sweetness of victory after a long string of defeats, there is every reason to believe that they will go ahead and win their fair share of the game. The team is certainly entitled to a better break than it has been having. The infusion of new blood has a decidedly invigorating effect, and in addition to the new players, who are already showing signs of improvement, the team is being led by a manager who is a proven winner. The Doves are now in a position to share the games with the other teams in the league.

RED SOX HOME TO-CROWD FOR HARD GAMES

Back to their old form again, the Red Sox will be home tomorrow for two games, first with Athletics and then with Washington. Before leaving on their trip to Washington, however, they will have a double-header on the schedule, the first game being with the Athletics and the second with the Senators. The Athletics, who are already in the lead, will be a strong opponent for the Red Sox. The Senators, who are also in the lead, will be a strong opponent for the Athletics.

BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JUNE 25, 1909.

President Taft's
Tax Scheme

It Has Been Revised So "the Plucked Goose Won't His Too Loudly"

tax on all corporations has been revised and relieved of those features which were sure to make the plucked goose hiss too loudly.

Corporations are still to be taxed, but there is to be no examination of their books, no horde of Government inspectors and no public inquiry into their private affairs unless there is reason to suspect fraud or perjury in the reports which the corporations themselves are to be required to make of their gross earnings and profits. If investigation is deemed necessary of any corporation account, it is to be made only upon an order of the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is safe to say that such inquests will in practice be rare. Nearly all corporations will submit reports that will pass muster; they will pay the tax and there will not be very much "hissing."

This does not change the fact that the proposed tax scheme is wrong, because it is unjust and unequal. An income tax would be fairer, because it would treat all alike. An individual makes money in his business, yet is not to be taxed on his profits. A partnership makes money in its business and divides large dividends from the earnings, yet is not to pay a tax thereon.

Some of the largest fortunes in America are invested in the bonds of corporations, and some of the holders of these bonds "toil not, neither do they spin," but live in idle luxury, contributing nothing to the work or welfare of mankind, they will continue to live tax free—as far as President Taft's plan provides—until death levies a succession tax on their estates. THIS IS FUNDAMENTALLY WRONG.

China and the Sigel Case

derers of Elsie Sigel.

In this effort it should be met with sympathy and understanding by all Americans who appreciate the fearful tax that race prejudice lays upon international justice and the freedom of commerce.

The quarrel that Americans in California, in Boston, and elsewhere, have with the base elements of Chinese life that have been introduced into this country is not in the least a matter of race prejudice.

It is a matter of bitter experience.

The unspokeable voices of "Chinatown," as it actually exists in San Francisco and in this city, need not be attributed to the Chinese Government or to the Chinese people AS THEY LIVE IN THEIR OWN LAND.

The Chinese in America are exotic and unassimilable. They live here under abnormal conditions that breed the grossest immorality.

Almost utterly lacking in the companionship of women of their own race, devoid of every sentiment of patriotism for their adopted country and marked by economic peculiarities that set their interests in antagonism to those of American workmen—the Chinese settlements among us have become FLAGGE SPOTS OF SOCIAL INFECTION.

The American feels bound to warn the country against the poison of their contagion.

More than 50 per cent. of the soldiers in South Africa were below the minimum standard required of the recruits for the Crimean War half a century before. The average per cent. of the recruits in the Boer War failed to reach the former minimum standard of chest girth which had been thirty-four inches, and about one-third of the troops in the Boer War fell below the former minimum standard of weight, which had been 154 pounds. During the Boer War the average British soldier was two inches shorter, and one inch less in chest girth and fifteen pounds lighter than the average British soldier in the Crimean War.

Awful Lesson England
Teaches Us To-day

In the seventeenth century, according to Malthus, a large percentage of Englishmen lived on land which they themselves cultivated. In the England of to-day, however, 90 per cent. of the population live in cities and towns; herds of men exist—rather than live—in the congested conditions where the children are crying for the light which they never have seen, and for the fresh bread which they never have tasted.

It is just to be questioned that the physical degeneracy, which is proceeding at so rapid a rate in England, is due, in any considerable measure at any time, to just this massing of population in urban centers with all their demerits and demerits in which such congestion is sure to engender.

Now can it be doubted that a similar degeneracy, induced by similar influences, is in progress in our own country? It is a prudent of nature that children should grow up and that they should live close to the ground and in the midst of air that is fresh and pure and of sunshine that is sweet and unobscured.

And so long as a very considerable percentage are to be degraded of that people, a degree of physical degeneracy is certain to ensue and the deterioration of the body will first affect its efficiency and then its vitality and the reduction of all these energies will be the value of a nation.

It is therefore not simply an economic service, but distinctly a patriotic one to endeavor to secure the best of immigration from the cities and towns, and to adopt whatever measures may be feasible for employing out of the city, where the money is available, of those who are degraded and to a kind to produce physical degeneracy.
